The Sixty-Ninth Regiment.

One more splendid evidence of the heroism, military spirit and indomitable bravery of their race, has been given to the world by the 69th Irish Regiment in the disastrous battle before Manassas. In one brief year this noble corps has earned an imperishable fame, and established its claim to rank in history beside that Irish Brigade that lent additional glory in bygone days to the conquering arms of France.

Two brief telegraphic paragraphs, received during the past week, epitomise the spirit and position, of this unhappy war, of the brave Sixty-Ninth. The first, speaking of the order of advance of the Federal army on the day that the first conflict took place at Bull's Run, says: "No change took place in the order of the main column to-day, except that the 69th New York Regiment took the van." The second announced the general battle, and its disastrous results. In the brief details we find the following mention: "The 69th Regiment were cut to pieces; they covered the retreat, and fought like tigers." They were the first on the field and the last off of it.

It is but a short year since the city at New York ran mad over the advent of an English prince and his suit. On this occasion the 69th Regiment sternly refused to associate themselves with the popular flunkeyism, or to take part in the demonstrations made in honor by the citizens military of New York. For this manly and becoming act of common sense and self-respect, one of those popinjay military Generals, (that in times of action like the present are a curse to the public service,) court-martialed the Colonel, and endeavored to break up the regiment. Major General Sandford's proceedings were however, quashed by the Governor on the breaking out of the war, as a matter of expediency. Immediately after the 69th, overlooking the injustice and slur attempted to be cast upon them, were the first to volunteer from the State of New York for the defense of the American flag. How well and faithfully they have done so, is written with their blood on the plains of Virginia.

Mustered into the service, they gave an example to the whole army of discipline, good conduct, and energy. Field works on an extensive scale were erected by them with marvelous rapidity; and in this respect, an amount of labor endured cheerfully far beyond that exerted by any other portion of the army. But no part of their action is more worthy of record and imitation than the consistent and constant observance, amid the labors and excitements of the camp, of those religious duties that fitted them alike to live and die well.

At last the time for attacking the entrenched positions of the Confederate army had arrived, and in the van of the main column of the Federal forces we find the 69th marching cheerily into action, singing a battle-song of their native land. The remainder of the tale is brief, disastrous, but so far as that Irish regiment was concerned, most glorious.

An Englishman was present at the battle who had served through the Crimean war. He avers that he never witnessed such brilliant charges as this devoted corps made during the action; they dashed forward in unwavering line in the face of a withering fire from the enemy, and their wild cheer rose defiantly in the thickest of the fight over the din of the surrounding battle. Then came the wild and unaccountable panic in the army they were attached to, the indiscriminate flight, the miserable sauve qui peut of a disorganized retreat; and then the heroic Sixty-Ninth stripped off everything but their nether garments, closed their twice-decimated ranks, disputed with desperate valor the advance of the victorious Confederates; repeatedly turning like lions on the pursuing foe, and covering the retreat of the panic-stricken battalions for the whole of that dismal twenty-two miles of road, which was strewn with the arms that the fugitives had cast away to disencumber their flight. When the army, demoralized to a mob, at last reached their lines on the Potomac, the remnant of the 69th came in with their colors, their weapons, and their honor. It is true, a large number of the arms of that regiment are lying on the road between Manassas and the Federal lines; but the men who carried them are lying dead beside them.—

—S. F. Monitor, Aug. 10.

Parson Brownlow's Paper Suppressed.

This veteran, it is said, has at last fallen a victim to Southern despotism which is crushing out every vestige of freedom and fidelity to the Union. His paper, the Knoxville Whig, is suppressed by the military under General Zollicoffer, one of the Tennessee traitors. But Brownlow will rise again, and his paper will yet write the obituary of Southern treason and rebellion. Like the eloquent ashes of the martyr victims of Christianity in earlier ages:—

> "Flung to the heedless winds,
> Or on the waters cast,
> Their ashes shall be watched,
> And gathered at the last."

The brave editor, in his issue of the 10th, anticipating that it would be his last published under his name, a long article upon the deplorable condition of affairs, closing thus:

"So far as we are concerned, we can suspend our publication in obedience to the dictates of tyranny and intolerance—we will yield to the demands of an armed mob—turn over to them our office and what little property we have—deprive ourselves and a helpless family of small children of the necessary means of support—and beg our bread from door to door among Union men who are able to give—but we shall refuse, obstinately refuse, to the day of our death, to think or speak favorably of such a Confederacy as this, or to agree that honor, patriotism or love of country has influenced the men at its head who have plunged the country into this revolution! And whether our humble voice is hushed in death—whether our press is muzzled by the spirit of intolerance at Richmond, making this our last issue of a journal we have edited for almost a quarter of a century, we beg all who may come after us and our paper, to credit no Secession falsehood that may represent us as having changed our principles from those of an exalted devotion to the old American Union, and of undying hostility to those who would perpetrate its dissolution!"—Sacramento Union.

ENGLISH OPINION.—President Lincoln's last message is generally accepted in England as a clear, simple, sincere and manly exposition of the true causes and motives of the civil war that the Government is endeavoring to end. It has drawn from the most intelligent British journals words of sympathy and encouragement. They recognize that the majority of the American people are struggling to maintain the essential principle of their system—obedience to the decrees of the ballot box as the only security for peace, stability and popular rule.

Legal Notice.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Multnomah County. A. M. A. Blanchet, Complainant, vs. Oswald Travaillot, Defendant. In Chancery.

TO OSWALD TRAVAILLOT, Defendant: You are hereby notified that A. M. A. Blanchet has this day filed in my office his bill of complaint, and commenced a suit against you, in which he claims that on the tenth day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, you made and delivered to him a certain promissory note for the sum of six hundred dollars, payable ten months after date, with interest at the rate of two per cent. per month, and at the same time made, acknowledged and delivered a certain mortgage deed upon lots numbered three and four in block number three, in Couch's claim or addition to the City of Portland, in the county aforesaid, as security for the payment of said note; and complainant prays for a decree of foreclosure and for the sale of the said mortgaged premises to pay the amount due upon said mortgage, to-wit: The sum of six hundred dollars and interest as aforesaid since the twentieth of September, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and for a judgment against you for any balance which may remain unpaid after the application of the proceeds of the sale of said property for the payment of said debt; and you are further notified that unless you appear in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah on the second Monday of November, A. D. 1861, and then and there answer the said bill of complaint, the same will be taken as confessed, and the prayer thereof will be granted by the Court.

(L. S.) In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of this Court this 22th day of August, A. D. 1861.

the pasturage is good, and while cattle sell at fair prices, cattle-raising is a very agreeable business to farmers. The summers are very dry East of the Cascades; the winters are mild and dry—some snow—but not enough to prevent cattle from getting a good living upon the native grasses.

THE WILLAMETTE VALLEY.

We suppose the largest portion of emigrants will come to this Valley. They can make themselves more comfortable here for the winter than in any other part of this coast. Provisions are cheap, good and plenty; and the emigrants can find employment. Most of them should push up into this Valley. They will find cabins and houses where they can stay for the winter—make themselves comfortable—and then look round and see what they best can do to further their designs in coming here. Farms can be bought cheap; wild lands can be had from three to seven dollars an acre. If purchasers should appear, the great claims which injure the country can be bought up and divided among industrious beginners—a thing we should be very glad to see. We are told that a good many of the French settlers on French Prairie, will sell out. The Americans are getting too thick around them; and they want to go with their native wives, and half-breed children, East of the mountains, where they can have more room. The mania for mining—which carries off old settlers to the mines—will give an opportunity to rent farms to advantage, or buy them.

We caution our emigrants from indulging too much in the pictures that fancy has painted on their minds in regard to the appearance of this Valley, and the improvements of the country. We certainly have good soils, fine climate, excellent timber, water, and a great many other advantages; but we require labor to develop the worth of Oregon. That is what we desire emigration for—and why we welcome, with glad hearts, the farmers and their families, who are coming to us from the States. Willamette Valley can furnish lands for farms and homes for two hundred thousand people; and we have scarcely thirty-five thousand. The emigrants come in a bad season of the year—the rainy season; and we want them as rapidly as possible, to get into houses for the winter. The winter will not be severe—it will be rainy—and will soon be over, when emigrants will rejoice in the enjoyment of the beautiful Spring which will follow.

At the present time attention is devoted to the region of which Walla Walla, on the Upper Columbia, is the center. There is much fine agricultural country in that vicinity. The market for produce in that direction will only be limited by the increasing demands of the mines. No considerate man supposes that these will be lessened, but will be enlarged as these mines are developed and others discovered. We doubt not that the choice country in the neighborhood of Walla Walla, including that beautiful locality, "The Grande Ronde," will soon be occupied by farms. While emigrants will make the wild places we have here spoken of "bud and blossom as the rose"—soon presenting farms where the necessaries and luxuries of life can be had and enjoyed—a portion of the emigrants now coming here, and who will continue to come in succeeding years—will prefer to come down to the coast where they can enjoy the advantages of more extended markets—river, bay and ocean navigation—direct commerce in ships, steamers, and other vessels, with the world. Such a region can be found on the Chehalis river, and on other rivers that empty their waters into Gray's Harbor. On the Chehalis river, there are extensive tracts of excellent land. The bottom lands of that river are wonderfully productive, and can be prepared for cultivation by a small amount of labor.

There are tracts of land on the rivers emptying into the same harbor from the north—navigable for steamers—embracing rolling land, fertile bottoms, "salt marsh," furnishing the finest grasses summer and winter—convenient to valuable timber—on which can be found numerous springs of the purest soft water—offering all the advantages for new settlements that can be offered to emigrants. These lands can be reached by emigrants crossing the river at the Cowlitz—proceeding north on the road to Olympia, until it is proper to turn west, and push their way to the lands in question. They will find a road most of the way—occasionally prairie, open timber, streams readily forded at this season of the year, and in a short time they will reach the localities herein described—where nature has done all it ever did, or can, to make farms for emigrants. Farms made here, in a few years, cannot but be far more valuable than on any other portion of the coast. They will be near navigable waters, at a short distance from Vancouver and British Columbia markets.

present day. By an edict of the Government the possession of such horrible arms was designated as crime and treason, and after the war, in order to get rid of them, they were buried in cellars and pits, where they still lie concealed in large quantities."

THE MODERN BARBARIANS.—A citizen of Thompson, Windham Co., Ct., has a son in Charleston, S. C. Not long ago he wrote to his son to come home; and in company with three others, the young men started and came north as far as Richmond. There they were arrested. He saw no more of his companions, but he was taken into a room alone and severely catechized. He pleaded for permission to go home, but was told that he could go on one condition only—"without his firearms and baggage." He was, therefore, compelled to return to Charleston, from whence, by the express, he sends this story to his father.

It is said that a commission in Washington is seeking out the names of persons educated at West Point, and not in active military service, to place them in the volunteer regiments.

It is said that General Fremont, previous to declaring martial law in St. Louis, ascertained the existence of an organization, known as the Knights of the Golden Circle, and that they had a large amount of arms concealed. Gen. Fremont declares that he will punish treason with the halter.

[From the Mountaineer.]

Messrs. Watt and Boise, from Willamette valley, have driven here within a few days, 1500 head of sheep, and are now looking for a suitable place for a ranch.

Several families have left Touchet and John Day's river for fear of the Indians.

There were seven Indians engaged in murdering Mr. Briggs and his son on the Cascades. One of them was killed in the attempt to take him. The six others are now in prison at the Dalles. They committed the murder to get money with which to buy whisky.

Forty emigrant wagons had arrived at the Umatilla. They represent the incoming immigration as suffering for want of provisions. Two wagons loaded with provisions had arrived at the Umatilla. Mr. Coffin had left the Dalles to push on the supplies.

RESIGNATIONS IN THE NAVY.—A naval officer has completed the number of total resignations in the service from the commencement of secession up to the 1st of June, in the Navy Register for 1861. There were 1,354 commissioned and warrant officers, of these 761 were from free and 592 from slave States. Of the latter 72 were from the District of Columbia. Only 342 were from the Confederate States. Of the entire Southern officers 321 had resigned on the 1st of June, but several from the Confederate States are still in the Navy, and some from border States have left.

Commercial and Financial.

Since our last report, trade has been exceedingly quiet and the market has undergone no change except that an increased firmness is exhibited in the leading groceries. Our market is well supplied with nearly all descriptions of goods. The demand for produce is light and our quotations are jobbing rates.

CROPS.—The crops of Oregon the present fall may be thus stated:—The apple crop will be equal to that of last year; the wheat crop will be less than one-half of last year's crop. It does not thresh out well. The oat crop is good. Grass crop very fair. Potato crop short. The flocks of sheep have largely increased, and we have never seen better sheep. There will be the usual number of cattle—these are cheap. Cows can be had at from $10 to $15, with their calves. The hog crop will be much larger than last year. Before farmers will sell much wheat at fifty cents they will feed it to their hogs.

JOHN C. BUTTERWORTH'S CELEBRATED
CHEMICAL SOFT SOAP!

THE CHEAPEST MOST ECONOMICAL AND LABOR-saving Soap ever discovered.

PATENTED OCTOBER, 1860.

This Soap recommends itself for the following reasons: It is not only the best soap in use for the washtub and the toilet, but it is far the cheapest; washing is performed with half the labor required by other soaps; it removes all pitch, tar and grease from woolen and cotton goods; in a word it is the great desideratum of the age.

☞ Put up in five and ten pound cans. Each can is warranted to make sixty and one hundred and twenty pounds respectively.

Full directions for making accompany each can.

"This soap will win its way into every Laundry, Bathroom and Kitchen in the United States."—Philadelphia Journal.

"No family should be without Butterworth's Chemical Soap, as it is not only the best but cheapest soap in use."—Boston Journal.
